Why I stopped buying pre-ground pepper

It goes stale. That is the whole post. A peppercorn keeps its oils until it is cracked, and the tin on the shelf cracked them a year before it reached you.

A mill costs about the same as two tins and lasts a decade. There is nothing else to say about it, and I have said it twice now.